The SPSO can investigate complaints against the Council if you believe you have suffered injustice or hardship as a result of a poor service we have delivered or our failure to deliver a service. Some restrictions normally apply:

Before contacting the SPSO you should first go through the complaints process of the Council. If you’re not happy with the final response from the Council, or if you don’t get one, you can complain to the SPSO.

Complaints may be made in writing, by telephone or in person. There is also a dedicated link on their website at:

If you ask, we can give you a copy of this information in other formats and in other languages.
